

Guidelines for using the Dari Audio files with the Come Follow Me Course

The Dari audio version of Come Follow me is not an audio version of the text but talk programs about the same themes. There are two audio files for each chapter of Come Follow Me, see table below. These can be downloaded from: <http://afghanradio.org/en/teaching/come-follow-me>

The radio programs were originally intended to be a stand-alone series based on the CFM text. They are not a reading of the study book questions, but are an interesting and lively discussion between three persons on the same topics. If students listened to two programs per lesson they would understand a lot of the contents of the lesson, but they would also hear some things that aren't in the Study book text. The talk shows are based on the original Dari translation done in 2010, so there are some differences in content compared to 2017 version.

Recommended use

We recommend that these audio files are used as a supplement to the course for those who cannot read well- Each week they can listen to the two programs for the next discussion times so they have had an introduction to the topic before they join in the discussion with their Advisor and others.

In addition, if possible, before the weekly discussion time (in a group or 1 to 1), we recommend that the non-literate learner go through the study book lesson for that week with someone who can read their language, and help them fill in the answers. This will help them be prepared for the discussion time and enable them to fully participate.
